e-Michigan Releases Mental Health Commission Website

e-Michigan Web Development within the Michigan Department of Information Technology has created a new Mental Health Commission website. E-Michigan Web Development worked with the Department of Community Health in the design of this new website.

This new website found at www.Michigan.gov/mentalhealth was designed for use by the Mental Health Commission and the public. It will provide easy access to the background materials and presentations included in the commissioners' informational materials, as well as links to other useful mental health-related information. Currently the new website provides information about the newly formed Mental Health Commission, mental health reference materials, and mental health policy in Michigan.
